7. [ ] John Bross called to say that Bill Weeks called him from California about 7:00 p.m. Friday evening to say that Representative Paul McCloskey had been most unhappy over the Agency's unwillingness to provide him a briefing on North Vietnam. Bross said he told Weeks that normally State and Defense are the appropriate places to go for briefings of this sort.

8. [ ] [ ] called to say they would like to confer with the FBI regarding a possible [ ] involving a former employee on the staff of Senator James O. Eastland. Since I had just discussed this case with Senator Eastland last week (see Memo for Record of 18 February 1971), I called Eastland to see if he had any objection to our informing the Bureau of latest developments. Eastland said he did not, and in fact would like to see the individual involved prosecuted but had understood the Agency had interposed objection. I said I was unaware of the facts of this particular case, but we did often find taking a [ ] case into court was more trouble than it was worth.

9. [ ] Met with Representative G. William Whitehurst (R., Va.) in response to his inquiry concerning a Cuban defector in Spain. I explained that we had no Agency interest in this individual, and gave Whitehurst a suggested reply to his constituent who had raised the matter with him.

Whitehurst discussed problems created by certain new members of the House Armed Services Committee, remarking that it was only safe to assume that henceforth almost anything that was said before the full Armed Services Committee might leak.
